CORE WORD: Dance

For Educators, Related Service Providers and Parents

In addition to our previous month’s strategies of Aided Language Stimulation and provision of ‘Wait Time,’ our October strategy of the month is Following the Child’s lead. The strategy of Following the Child’s Lead promotes a child/student directed approach to AAC intervention where the communication partner has the opportunity to observe and respond to what the child is engaged in and to integrate use of the AAC system across a variety of situations that are of interest to the student. Additionally, communication partners can provide and embed the use of other AAC strategies (such as Aided Language Stimulation and Wait Time) when they engage with students.

WAYS WE CAN USE THE WORD

SHARE INFORMATION: (e.g. We like to dance at the end of the day.)

COMMENT: (e.g. He is dancing)

ANSWER QUESTIONS: (e.g. Yes, I like to dance)

REQUEST: (e.g. Can I dance too?)

ROUTINES AND SCHEDULES

Adults can create a dance to do at the beginning of the day, or whenever the class comes back from recess, lunch, etc. to dance their sillies out. They can use the song: Shake your sillies out courtesy of the Learning Station https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=NwT5oX_mqS0&list=PLVrAmG1c3yD9I1Ru-SchV5DoeV8lQRnm4&index=6

PLAY

Freeze dance games can be played as a class. Students can take turns dancing, picking the music, and pausing the music.
Students can engage in pretend play and dress up as ballerinas or other dancers and put on a dance recital that their friends or stuffed animals can watch.

SOCIAL INTERACTIONS AND VIDEO MODELING

Students can talk about their favorite kind of dance with their classmates. They can take turns asking each other and other adults to dance and dance in front of the class.

SENSORY MOTOR

Freeze Dance painting: Students and Adults can take off their shoes, dip their feet into paint and dance along a sheet of butcher paper to create a freeze dance painting. This can be done using music to pause and freeze or just dancing to the music in your head.

STRUCTURED ACTIVITIES

Students can create smart charts about when they like to dance.

CORE WORD: Break

For Educators, Related Service Providers and Parents

In addition to our previous month’s strategies of Aided Language Stimulation and provision of ‘Wait Time,’ our October strategy of the month is Following the Child’s lead. The strategy of Following the Child’s Lead promotes a child/student directed approach to AAC intervention where the communication partner has the opportunity to observe and respond to what the child is engaged in and to integrate use of the AAC system across a variety of situations that are of interest to the student. Additionally, communication partners can provide and embed the use of other AAC strategies (such as Aided Language Stimulation and Wait Time) when they engage with students.

WAYS WE CAN USE THE WORD

ASK QUESTIONS: (e.g. Can I have a break?, Did it break?)

DIRECT ACTION: (e.g. break it)

TELL SECRETS: (e.g. I break that)

GET HELP: (e.g. help me break)

INSTRUCT: (e.g. You can break it in half)

PROTEST: (e.g. I’m not taking a break now)

AGREE: (e.g. I think it’s time for a break, too).

SHARE AN IDEA: (e.g. I can ask for a break if I need one).

MAKE CHOICES: (e.g. When I get a break, I can make a choice of what I want to do).

SHARE PHYSICAL NEEDS: (e.g. Because I’m so tired, I need a break).

COMMENT: (e.g. Give me a break!).

EXPRESS FEELINGS: (e.g. After I take a break, I feel better).

For the purpose of this activity, break means to separate into pieces, damage or if something is no longer functioning. Self-regulatory ‘break’ activity ideas can be found in the August level 1 posting under ‘take a break’!

ROUTINES AND SCHEDULES
Snack/mealtimes: Students can use ‘break’ during snack time to indicate that they would like their snack to be broken into smaller pieces.

Tabletop Activities/Centers: Students may signal after a period of time that they need a break. Familiar communication and educational ‘smart partners’ often read the signal(s) and may be able to gauge when a break is needed, before a student is able to express or request it. Modeling the need for a break on the AAC system and then providing the student with a break, helps them understand how to ask for the break that they truly need to self-regulate and access the curriculum.

Circle: Students can use ‘break’ during circle time to indicate that an object has a rip in it (e.g. their book) or if something isn’t working right (e.g. the music isn’t playing).

PLAY

Toys and Games: Students can say ‘break’ to indicate that their toy or game is not working or is falling apart. And in this case, adults can respond that they will help and see if they can ‘fix’ it.

Recess

There are beginnings and endings to every activity. While students are on the playground, many may need or wish to change activities or even rest because they are tired. This may be a perfect opportunity for adults to model that such students may need a break or may wish to change activities and make another choice.

SOCIAL INTERACTIONS AND VIDEO MODELING

Students can use break to indicate that they wish to share something with their friend. For example, if a student has a cookie, they can use ‘break’ to alert an adult that they wish to break this cookie in half and share it!

STRUCTURED ACTIVITIES

Adults can facilitate a conversation about what ‘break’ means by explaining to students that ‘break’ means to separate into pieces. Break may also represent that something is not working right!

CORE WORD: Wait a Minute

For Educators, Related Service Providers and Parents

In addition to our previous month’s strategies of Aided Language Stimulation and provision of ‘Wait Time,’ our October strategy of the month is Following the Child’s lead. The strategy of Following the Child’s Lead promotes a child/student directed approach to AAC intervention where the communication partner has the opportunity to observe and respond to what the child is engaged in and to integrate use of the AAC system across a variety of situations that are of interest to the student. Additionally, communication partners can provide and embed the use of other AAC strategies (such as Aided Language Stimulation and Wait Time) when they engage with students.

WAYS WE CAN USE THE WORD

DIRECT ACTION: (e.g. please wait a minute)

PROTEST: (e.g. wait a minute)

AFFIRMATION: (e.g. yes, wait a minute)

EXPRESS CONFUSION: (e.g. what? wait a minute)

ROUTINES AND SCHEDULES

Circle: Students can use ‘wait a minute’ if someone interrupts them while they are sharing during circle time. Students can also use ‘wait a minute’ if they aren’t ready to share at circle time yet.

Snack/mealtimes: Students and adults can use “wait a minute” when they need more time to finish up eating or would like to try to open their snack without help.

PLAY

Toys and Games: If someone tries to take a toy or game from a student, they can use “wait a minute” to let them know they aren’t ready to share yet. Students can use this phrase as a way of letting people around them know they aren’t ready to stop what they are doing and would like more time.

Recess
Students and adults can play freeze tag and use their ‘wait a minute yield’ sign as a visual aid in ‘freezing’ their friend (see Art and Science Activities for more details on this). Adults can model that when you get ‘tagged’ with the wait a minute yield sign, you must wait for someone to unfreeze you!

Here’s a video on how to play freeze tag - or in this case, ‘wait a minute’ tag.

ESL Games That Are Fun | Freeze Tag | Courtesy of Easy ESL Games

READING

Here are some suggested books on YouTube that can assist in teaching the core word:

Waiting is Not Easy! By Mo Willems Courtesy of Kids Story Tube
Cork and Fuzz by Dori Chaconas - Coco’s Reading Time Courtesy of Ovi
Waiting by Kevin Henkes | Read aloud Book for Kids - Courtesy of SnuggleBug StoryTime

SOCIAL INTERACTIONS AND VIDEO MODELING

Students can use “wait a minute” when they are talking to a friend and someone interrupts them. Students can also use “wait a minute” to inform others that they are working on a message and to be patient while they complete their message themselves. Students can also use ‘wait a minute’ if they have a question or a comment while their friend is telling them a story.

Here is a helpful video in explaining the importance of teaching ‘waiting’ as a crucial turn taking skill.

Just Play! Teaching Turn Taking And Waiting - Courtesy of ESC Region 13

SENSORY MOTOR

‘Wait a minute’ Freeze Dance: Students and adults can have a dance off and whoever is in charge of the music can hold up the ‘wait a minute’ yield sign (see Art and Science activities) as the cue to freeze while an adult simultaneously pauses the music!
Adults can use this song to play freeze dance, any other song works just fine too.

The Dance Freeze Song | Freeze Dance | Courtesy of Scratch Garden

Students and adults can also play ‘red light, green light’ and instead of saying “red light”, adults can model “wait a minute” while holding up the yield sign to signify that the students should pause their bodies and stop running. Once the students understand the flow of the game, a student can be the ‘wait a minute’ instructor.

STRUCTURED ACTIVITIES

Adults can hold a facilitated conversation about the new phrase ‘wait a minute’ in order to teach students what it means and when this phrase may come in handy.

Adults can teach students that when they are becoming overwhelmed, confused, or have an idea they can use “wait a minute” to let people know they need a quick pause.

This is an important phrase especially in regard to the complex communication systems that we are supporting students in learning and using. Sometimes it takes more time to complete a message and as adults we want to make sure the students have a way of letting others know they are working on a message.

For more information on wait time, please see September’s strategy of the month!

ART OR SCIENCE ACTIVITIES
‘Wait a Minute’ Yield Sign: Students can create a yield traffic sign with yellow construction paper and a popsicle stick that says ‘wait a minute’ on it. Adults can help students in writing the phrase on this sign, as well as print out the students’ symbol sequence for ‘wait a minute.’ Example created by Alisa Lego.

The Marshmallow Experiment - Instant Gratification Courtesy of FloodSanDiego

Adults can try this experiment at home or school with any variation of a marshmallow (e.g. skittle, piece of a peanut-butter sandwich, a pea, etc.) and highlight the importance of ‘wait a minute.’ Delayed gratification is a tricky executive function skill for so many students!

USE OF APPS OR OTHER TECHNOLOGY

Adults can use a visual timer app Visual Timer Countdown to emphasize the ‘wait a minute’ meaning in context. Students can use this timer when they would like more time on a specific task throughout the day such as snack time, or story time. Adults can teach students that they have a way to tell others to ‘wait a minute’ and pair it with a visual timer in order to ensure that adults and students are on the same page with how long this waiting period can last.

WORD WALL: Create a WordWall and add ‘wait a minute’ to the list.

READING and the Word Wall: Sound out the letters together. Have the students find the word on the AAC system.

WRITING and the Word Wall: Using a pencil or alternative pencil, have students try to type the word on the keyboard or write the word together.
